

Onsite And Near-Site Clinics Offered Through Medstat

It can be challenging in today's workplace to successfully control health care costs. In recent years, health care costs have continued to rise prompting more employers to look beyond traditional options to offer a broader spectrum of care. Onsite and near-site clinics offered through MedStat can help to bridge that gap by providing acute and/or chronic care for employees at a structured monthly rate that provides multiple benefits to local employers.

What are the Differences?

Onsite clinics are typically housed at or near your facility. These clinics may be shared between companies to help reduce costs. Hours for the clinics are set by our team taking into account what works best for you and your staff. Appointments are typically scheduled. Expenses include direct operational costs such as MedStat staffing, clinic space, equipment, and management fees. Labs, pharmaceuticals, and supplies can be provided at discounted rates. Acute and chronic care are commonly provided which allows for long-term health conditions to be better managed and treated. Wellness services can also be included.

Near-site clinics are typically housed at the MedStat location that is closest to you. Because of this, near-site clinic hours would mirror the hours of your MedStat location. No appointment would be needed for most visit types. This option has less upfront costs as there is no facility cost, staffing fees or startup fee. Labs, pharmaceuticals, and supplies can be provided at discounted rates. This option would allow for treatment of acute illness/injury and wellness services.

Benefits of Onsite and Near-Site Health Clinics

What are the benefits?

- Lower healthcare expenditures
According to The National Association of Worksite Health Centers, onsite clinics result in a significant cost savings for employers because they cut down on urgent care visits, ER visits and inpatient admissions. Sixty-four percent of companies surveyed by the organization reported significant cost savings. A majority of respondents of all sizes said the financial objectives for their onsite clinics are being met with 64% seeing a reduction in medical care costs. Many discounts are available through our onsite and near-site clinics that help you to save even more.
- Improved health and productivity
In a Mercer analysis of workplace clinics, 63% of employers said their clinics have successfully reduced lost workdays. Sixty three percent also had reduced use of the emergency room. According to recent studies by The Alliance, onsite health care clinics can encourage better long-term employee health, reduce absenteeism, and improve productivity. Through the MedStat caretaking model that focuses on health, wellness, and prevention, we help your employees to live healthy lifestyles and be accountable for their own health.
- Employee perk
Onsite clinics also can be a positive benefit used to attract and retain quality employees. Onsite clinics are a benefit that employees tend to highly value, strengthening your company's reputation as an employer of choice. More than 40 companies on Fortune's list of the 100 Best Companies to Work For offer onsite clinics.

KCH Sleep Center

A lack of sleep among the U.S. workforce costs approximately $411 billion and 1.2 million working days per year, according to Rand.org. Sleep deprivation can cause reduced cognitive performance, poor memory association, slow reaction time, and impaired decision making.

The KCH Sleep Center can perform a free sleep assessment at your next health fair to see if any of your employees could benefit from a sleep study. While many employees may experience normal, temporary sleep problems, some may have a more serious form of insomnia that requires treatment. If you would like more information on sleep health for your employees or health fair offerings, please contact Anne Cuahuizo at 574-372-3895
